SAIGON (AP) - The Viet Cong switched to daytime bombardment of Saigon today, slamming some 30 big rockets into the heart of the city during the morning rush hour. The barrage killed at least 19 Vietnamese civilians and wounded 106.

It was the heaviest casualty toll and the first major daytime bombardment since the Viet Cong began almost daily shelling of the capital 38 days ago. The barrages have killed at least 128 persons and wounded 519.

The six-foot 122mm rockets exploded in the vicinity of major government buildings but did little damage to most of them. However, one landed on the roof of the government communications headquarters and knocked out most telecommunications abroad, including lines leased by a number of American firms.

The barrage began about 6:15 a.m., and a little more than five hours before Gen. William C. Westmoreland relinquished his command of U.S. troops in Vietnam and left for Manila, Honolulu and Washington.

Westmoreland told a farewell news conference Monday it was almost impossible "to stop the indiscriminate firing of a few mortar rounds, a few rocket rounds, in consideration of the wide open and very chopped up and difficult country around Saigon."

He conceded that "civilians are getting killed and some houses are being damaged," but he added, as he has said before, "it's of really no military consequence. It does make headlines, I must say."

Some observers disagreed. The shelling is spreading fear among the population and the undermining confidence in the Paris talks.

Court Upholds Police Stop-Frisk Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court, accused for years of handcuffing the police, has bowed to the judgment of the cop on the beat.

As a practical matter, said eight of the nine justices Monday, he can't be expected to run off to a judge for a warrant every time his practiced eye picks out suspicious behavior.

Moreover, the eight agreed, it is only reasonable that he pat down the suspect or suspects if he fears his questions may be answered with a bullet or a knife-sweep.

Driver Goes To Sleep, Hurt In Bumpy Ride

The state patrol reported a single injury Monday in a highway accident at 10:30 p.m. on Interstate 55, one half mile south of the Cape Girardeau county line.

Harry G. Menken, 65, Cape Girardeau, driving a 1965 Pontiac, apparently fell asleep, ran off the road and came to a stop in the median.

He was taken to Southeast Missouri hospital, Cape Girardeau, where he was treated for cuts on his scalp, arm, and a possible head injury on the bumpy trip.

The patrol stated he would be charged with careless and imprudent driving.

Blaiberg Develops Hepatitis

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) - Dr. Philip Blaiberg, the world's longest surviving heart transplant patient received emergency treatment for a liver complications today, Groote Schuur Hospital announced.

In London, Dr. Christian N. Barnard, who headed the surgical team that gave Blaiberg a new heart Jan. 2, said Blaiberg has hepatitis and his condition is "not critical."

Barnard, on his way to Cape Town after visiting the Netherlands, said he talked by telephone with doctors at Groote Schuur Hospital who gave him a report on Blaiberg's condition. Hepatitis is an inflammation of the liver.

"His condition is not critical," Barnard told newsmen. "But I am disappointed that this happened. I have not given up hope."

Blaiberg, 59, returned to the hospital for routine tests June 4, five months and two days after he received the world's third transplanted human heart. He was transferred Monday to the special sterilized suite he had occupied after the operation.

Meanwhile Britain's heart transplant patient, Frederick West, 45, was suffering from a chest infection that developed three days ago. But the National Heart Hospital in London said he improved slightly Monday night and the improvement was maintained today. West was operated on May 3.

Blaiberg received his new heart in the Groote Schuur team's second transplant. The first was performed on Louis Washkansky Dec. 3 but he died 18 days later of pneumonia.

Since the historic first transplant operation on Washkansky, 20 other heart transplants have been performed around the world. Six of the recipients are still alive.

Abstentions On Nuclear Treaty High

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) - The treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons won overwhelming approval in the United Nations Monday, but more nations abstained on the vote than expected.

The vote in the General Assembly's main political committee was 92 for the resolution, four against it, 22 abstaining and four absent. Delegates had expected between 100 and 105 U.N. members to vote for the treaty.

The committee adopted a 48 nation resolution commending the treaty and asking that it be opened for signature and ratification as soon as possible. The assembly will give the resolution final approval later this week, winding up the session.

Of the five nuclear powers, the Soviet Union, the United States and Britain cosponsored the resolution and voted for it. France abstained, and Communist China, which is not a member of the United Nations, called the treaty a Soviet-U.S. plot against revolutionary peoples.

French Crisis Flares Anew

PARIS (AP) - A Communist union militant was killed today in a clash with riot police in a provincial city as student and striker turmoil threatened to plunge France into a new major crisis.

In Paris, Latin Quarter university students rioted and built barricades and appealed to the trade unions and people of Paris to join them in a mass demonstration tonight against President Charles de Gaulle's government.

Several thousand Citroen auto plant workers streamed toward the Labor Ministry shouting for "freedom to work" after having been turned back from their plant by strike pickets.

The prefect (governor) of the Sochaux region, Bernard Vaugon, told a news conference that the union member identified only as Beylot, 24, was fatally wounded by a bullet in his chest. The prefect did not say who fired the shot. The bullet was being examined to attempt to determine its origin.

Sharp fighting between riot police and strikers broke out at the Peugeot auto plant at Sochaux after workers had voted narrowly, 2,664-2,615, Monday for a return to work.

The worst fighting occurred when strikers overwhelmed a riot police car, took guns from the car and set it afire. Several shots rang out.

Authorities said that, besides the dead man, 11 strikers and two riot police were injured. The metal workers branch of the Communist-run General Confederation of Labor - France's strongest union - police.

Tie Vote Stymies Tighter Gun Law Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Johnson's latest bid for a tougher gun control law was defeated today in the House Judiciary Committee by a tie vote but Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., held out hope for a favorable vote next week.

The committee deadlocked 16-16 on Celler's motion to report immediately the bill submitted by the administration Monday.

That measure, introduced in the House by Celler and in the Senate by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., would forbid mail order sales of rifles and shotguns as well as of handguns.

Rep. William M. McCulloch, R-Ohio, senior committee Republican, voted against immediate action but made a motion to reconsider the vote. It was agreed the committee would vote again June 20.

Celler said he expected a compromise version of the legislation would be approved at that time.

Congress sent to the President last week a measure which would ban mail-order sales of pistols. But Johnson, speaking in strong terms

Screams Frighten Away Assailant

Screams of an 18-year-old married woman apparently frightened away a male assailant, who apparently had climbed in the back seat of her car while it was parked last night at 235 North Handy St.

Mrs. Glenda Pruett, wife of Wendell Pruett of East Prairie, left the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Clements, 235 North Handy St., where she is employed as a nurse for Mrs. Clements at 11:30 p.m.

Her assailant reached forward and began choking her when she reached the viaduct on route CC one mile east of Sikeston.

When she pressed the horn on her automobile, a 1963 Ford, her mother, Mrs. Dewitt Thatcher, reported, Mrs. Pruett's assailant tightened his grip on her neck. This nearly caused the driver to wreck her car.

A necklace was broken in the struggle to keep her from calling for help.

Her mother said her daughter almost struck a telephone pole when she approached a driveway to her home.

When she reached the house she jumped out and screamed. Her father and a brother rushed from the house but the man in the back seat had disappeared in the darkness.

On her drive home, Mrs. Pruett went past the home of her parents, who live in the Bement Baptist church parsonage.

Public Employe Strike Bans Ineffective

Some of the 17 states with laws banning strikes by public employees have learned the hard way that such measures—even those with tough penalties—are not a guarantee against walkouts.

Thousands of teachers, sanitation workers and others on city, county and state pay rolls have struck in defiance of the state laws. In some cases they have suffered minor, if any, consequences despite stiff penalty provisions.

Not all of the 17 state measures call for penalties. Antistrike laws covering public employees are in effect in Massachusetts, Delaware, Illinois, New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Florida, Virginia, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Nebraska, South Dakota, Texas, Hawaii and Oregon.

In Illinois, there are no statutory provisions specifically banning strikes by public employees. But the Illinois Supreme Court has ruled that strikes by public service workers—including teachers—are unlawful.

A 1947 Pennsylvania law bars strikes by public employees under penalty of dismissal. The law provides that if a striker subsequently is rehired, he shall not be hired back at a salary higher than he received when he struck; receive no salary increase for three years; shall lose his tenure and be on probation for five years.

But the strong-language law was ineffective on two occasions recently, an 11-day strike by 1,000 Pittsburgh teachers of the Pennsylvania Federation of Teachers, and a massive protest march by 20,000 members of the Pennsylvania State Education Association.

Florida has an antistrike law for public employees, but its constitutionality is being questioned by a suit pending in the Florida Supreme Court.

Some 25,000 of Florida's 60,000 teachers walked out in February. Most were accepted back into classrooms without punishment following their mass "resignations."

But some were not taken back and others were rehired without tenure. The law provides that those who strike or resign without 30 days' notice can't be rehired for a year.

Virginia law prohibits any agency of the state or local political subdivisions from negotiating or bargaining with employee unions. Under the 1946 law, any employee—state, city or county—who goes on strike or otherwise fails to report for work shall be fired.

Iowa has a so-called right-to-work law, but it has no legislation prohibiting strikes either by public employees or industrial employees. It does have a law prohibiting collective bargaining between state agencies and its employees.

Ohio has had a law for years forbidding strikes by public employees, but teachers and other public employees have struck, threatened to strike and stayed off their jobs for "study sessions" without suffering serious consequences.

Perhaps the most controversial antistrike legislation involves New York State.

For many years, New York State had the so-called Condon-Wadlin law on its books, which forbids strikes by public employees. It mandated strike penalties for violators—automatic dismissal, loss of promotion rights and pay raises for those eventually rehired. But over the years, the law was regarded so harsh that the state ignored it, as did employees.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and the New York Legislature fostered a study which produced the Taylor law, enacted last year. It forbids strikes, but does not mandate dismissal of violators. The law switches penalty emphasis from rank-and-file employees to their unions and union leaders. The public employer may obtain a court injunction against striking; if it is violated, the union can be fined up to $10,000 a day for criminal contempt.

Such an injunction was filed during the garbage strike in New York City and the president of the New York City Sanitation Workers' Union was jailed.

The teachers' strike occurred just as the administrative mechanisms for implementing the Taylor law were being set up, and it was generally agreed that it was not a fair test of the law's effectiveness in preventing strikes.

Sanitation union leaders openly defied the no-strike ban and mediation procedures when the garbage dispute arose. A settlement was eventually worked out through binding arbitration. There was criticism at this point that the Taylor law had failed its first big test.

Proponents of the law pointed out that New York City is exempt from some provisions of the Taylor law, including one that the State Public Employment Relations Board is forbidden from intervening in the city until a strike has begun.

CONGRESS COULD pass a thousand laws but it wouldn't stop assassinations.

WHAT THE United States needs are not more laws, but a method to instill respect honor and integrity back into the character of some of our people.

IN RECENT YEARS great Americans have talked of the need for moral rearmament in the U.S.—which means living together in peace and with respect for the rights of fellow citizens.

RESPECT FOR the present laws and support for those authorities who enforce them would make a great difference in our society today.

MISGUIDED PUBLIC opinion and even our higher courts have handicapped our police in making our laws meaningful and permit people like Rap Brown and others to make fools of our society, our laws our authorities and our courts.

IF WE HAVE laws it is because the people want and need them. If we have laws they must be obeyed by all enforced and their enforcement supported by all.

SOMETIMES personal pride and honor are more forceful than laws in keeping order. This example is unusual but it tells a story worth thinking about.

IN PORTUGAL, just outside of Lisbon is a village where there is almost no crime. The people are hard working, mostly poor and if a small crime, such as stealing does happen, the thief is so humiliated and ostracized by his neighbors and friends he is forced to leave his home. It is also said that when the father comes home from work he would not think of going next door to call on his neighbor of many years without changing his shirt to a clean one as a means of showing respect for his long time friend.

BUT THE PEOPLE of this little fishing town, as I said, were unusual - but it does show that if people living together hold their fellow residents in high regard and respect there is little need for thousands of laws and big police forces.

FLAG DAY IS JUNE 14

It was on June 14, 1777, that the Continental Congress passed this resolution:

"Resolved, that the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

No one knows who designed this flag or who made the first one. William J. Canby said in 1870 that his grandmother, Betsy Ross, made the first one but historians doubt it.

However, Congress has authorized that the U.S. flag be flown day and night at the Betsy Ross house in Philadelphia.

And, while the flag may be flown every day, it is especially significant that it be displayed June 14-Flag Day.

The Continental Congress left no record to show why it chose red, white and blue for the flag, but in 1782 the Congress of the Confederation chose these same colors for the newly designed Great Seal of the United States.

The resolution on the seal said red is for hardness and courage, white is for purity and innocence and blue for vigilance, perseverance and justice.

According to the World Book Encyclopedia:
"The Stars and Stripes stand for the land, the people, the government and the ideals of the United States, no matter when or where it is displayed."

There are several important rules to follow when displaying the flag.

It should be flown from sunrise to sunset from public buildings, schools and permanent staffs, weather permitting. When the flag is displayed, however it must be done properly.

When the flag is displayed without a staff the blue field should be at the top left as you face the flag.

When suspended above a street, it should hang vertically, with the union to the north on east-west streets and to the east on north-south street.

When displayed from a staff projecting from a window sill balcony or building front the union of the flag should always be at the peak of the staff unless the flag is at halfmast. When suspended over a sidewalk from a rope between a building and a pole at the edge of the sidewalk the flag should be hoisted out from the building union first.

"From each according to his abilities, to each according to his needs."

We agree with Editor Wes Izzard as he writes that his major tenet of Communism was wet down in 1875 by Karl Marx in a tract titled "Critique of the Gotha Program."

It was adopted by the Fabian Socialists in England and spread by them throughout the western world.

It means simply that those who produce must share with those who don't.

Also, implicit in the rule is the stipulation that an all-wise authority do the dividing.

Today in this country we are moving toward a concept called the "negative income tax." This is another term for guaranteed income.

Those whose income is below what experts say is necessary to support a family "in some comfort" would receive regular checks from the U. S. Treasury.

Says U. S. News & World Report: "Income tax takes money from the ones who have it. 'Negative income tax' gives money to those who do not have enough."

It means, in short: "From each according to his abilities, to each according to his needs."

U. S. News reports that while Congress looks on the proposal with a jaundiced eye at the moment many businessmen favor it. "Rockefeller and Nixon are inclining toward it. White House has task forces at work on it in various forms."

And this, says U. S. News, is the wave of the future—even though it promises to cost a minimum of 6 to 10 billion dollars a year.

It is also the wave of the past. It has been tried over and over, and has never worked because incentive dries up.

With so many Washington officials away making campaign speeches, we get the impression the country is on automatic pilot.

ROLWING FOR CONGRESS

This newspaper supports the candidacy of David Rolwing of Charleston for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the 10th Congressional District.

We believe that his legislative experience, his youthful energy, his forward outlook, and his record of personal and political independence qualify him for this important office.

We feel that he is the most qualified man in the race and that he will be able to represent the interests of Southeast Missouri in the Halls of Congress.

To be a good Congressman in the tough, decision-making days ahead, it will take a man who is intelligent, who has at least some legislative experience, who has the courage of his own convictions and who is forward-looking, and prepared to see great and lasting changes in this section of Missouri in the years ahead.

We believe that David Rolwing is such a man.

During the next decade, if the 10th District of Missouri has the proper type of leadership on the local state and national levels, there will be more changes than most of us have seen in a lifetime.

The type of man needed in Congress to represent this district during this time is a man who will welcome many of these changes, will help to see that many of them take place, and will provide the type of leadership to see that during this period of change, the 10th district is ably represented in the highest position of government.

Rolwing is from Mississippi County - a native of Charleston - and he has represented his county in the State Legislature for eight years. He has done a good job for his district, and for the State of Missouri. During his tenure in the Legislature he has stood and fought for such programs as industrial expansion for such areas as ours concern for the education of our young people and a sound agriculture, among others. He has business experience, farming experience, and a degree in the field of economics - sound preparation for a good Congressman.

But - perhaps most of all - we like his political and personal independence. He cares little for "slates", smokified rooms, and political "deals". He's going to no man with his hat in his hand, pleading for his support. He hadn't done it, and he won't do it.

While loyal to the principles of the Democratic party, and a "party man" in a General Election, Dave Rolwing is first, last and always "his own man". He feels and so, we think, do most Stoddard Counties that the Representative in Congress - or any other public official should be in a position to represent the people - not be a puppet for a select few.

We understand there is to be a closed-door session in Poplar Bluff on June 8 at which a "slate" for Southeast Missouri will be "picked" by a select few. We have no idea who will get the nod from this group - and we don't care a bit. If Dave Rolwing happens to get it then we will be for him DESPITE the endorsement not because of it.

The people of the 10th district face many problems and many changes in the months and years ahead. The people will need a young, aggressive, intelligent Congressman to help them solve these problems and meet these changes.

We believe that David Rolwing is that man.

TOMORROW
JUNE 12--WEDNESDAY
HELINSKI DAY. June 12. Helsinki, Finland.
INDEPENDENCE DAY. June 12. The Philippines. Declared independence from Spain on this day, 1898.

Motorists were reminded today by Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, of the law regarding littering of the State's highways.

"Missouri highways are heavily traveled during the late spring and summer months. It is during this time that the work of the litterbug is in particular evidence. I want to remind the motoring public that it is a misdemeanor to throw refuse on highways."

Colonel Hockaday quoted the Missouri law which prohibits throwing litter on highways or right of ways. The law reads in part: "No person shall throw, or place, or cause to be thrown or placed, any glass, glass bottles, wire, nails, tacks, hedge, cans, garbage, trash, refuse, or rubbish of any kind, nature or description on the right of way of any public road or State highway."

The Superintendent also quoted the section of the law which provides penalties for littering roadways. It reads: "Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than five hundred dollars or by confinement in the county jail for a term not to exceed one year or by both such fine and confinement."

"Littering highways is a costly and dangerous practice," Hockaday noted. "It costs the State thousands of the tax payers' dollars each year to keep highways clear of refuse caused by the litterbug. At the same time, it creates a potential hazard for the highway traveler. The Highway Patrol will continue to vigorously enforce the Missouri statutes relating to littering. We also urge motorists to assume their own responsibility and keep refuse in their cars until they reach a proper place of disposal," the Colonel concluded.

HUMAN SPIRIT BEST HOPE

In spite of the best-of-worst-efforts of the political promisers and planners, the human spirit still lives. Unfortunately, it usually takes a disaster of some kind to reveal the unlimited capacity of the spirit as well as the limited ability of the planners.

A little over three years ago, a disaster of classic proportions was visited upon Alaska. An earthquake, reminiscent of the San Francisco quake and fire brought destruction to such cities as Anchorage, Valdez and Seward. As the news and pictures trickled out of the stricken area, the immensity of the catastrophe was revealed. For a short time - a matter of hours - destruction and shock immobilized all efforts except for an elemental struggle to survive. Then the great submerged force of the human spirit came to the surface.

The rebirth of the stricken area during the past three years was lately the subject of an interesting story by Jessie Ash Arndt in The Christian Science Monitor. He observed that many Alaskans expressed the sentiment that, "As long as it happened, it's best that it happened here: We're used to taking care of ourselves." As time went on, federal aid, of course, played a major role in rehabilitation, but the incentive and the initiative to get started and keep moving came from the local citizenry. As a local businessman remarked, "We can't wait for Uncle Sam to do it for us. We must start helping ourselves." Now, according to Mr. Arndt, "In Anchorage, new homes along Turnagain Arm have replaced the 80 which slide into the sea in 1964. There are new and vastly improved port facilities, the new Captain Cook Hotel, and many new stores and other business buildings as well as more than 100 new homes in various parts of the city. The story is the same in Seward and Valdez."

The human spirit, in the final analysis, is the greatest builder of all. The recent disastrous floods that have wreaked such havoc in major Alaskan communities such as Fairbanks will put that spirit to the test again. Rebuilding is a race against the inexorable approach of the bitter northern winter. Despite all outside help that can be given, the life of these communities will depend largely upon the sheer strength and determination of individual citizens.

HISTORICAL ROLE OF SEA POWER

In one of his most penetrating columns, Raymond Moley analyzes the rising star of Russia as a great sea power. He observes, "Soviet strategists have been literate people. They have read in history that ever since Rome overcame Carthage, despite Hannibal's genius, the nations that have been dominant have been powerful on the sea, commercially and militarily. Nothing in our day has changed that."

Fourteen years ago, the Soviets set out to become a first-rate sea power, and as Mr. Moley points out, "In addition to building defensive naval forces, the U.S.S.R. has concentrated on accumulating a vast merchant fleet..." The purpose of all this, as one Russian put it, is "a new alignment of forces" in the world.

While Russia has been awakening to the historic role of sea power, the United States has been letting its merchant fleet decline. Only recently has there been a reawakening to the need for a new U.S. maritime policy that will assure the rebirth of our Merchant Marine. If this policy materializes, it will not be a moment too soon. As spokesmen for major segments of the U.S. merchant fleet have declared, the next five years are critical because within that period there will be "...a shocking reduction in the number of ships under 25 years of age..." Ships of this age simply cannot compete with the new, high speed and vastly more efficient ships now joining the merchant fleet of the world. The American flag must fly over a merchant fleet of the highest caliber if the United States is to compete successfully in the economic and military conflict with the communist world.

THINK YOU'VE HAD A TAX BITE?

It isn't too often that anyone gets ahead of the income tax people in putting a bite on the taxpayer, right?

But it happened in North Carolina. And guess who did it?

A dog!

What happened was that just a few hours before this taxpayer was to turn in his state income tax return and his withholding slip to the Department of Revenue, his dog got hold of the papers and chewed them up.

The Department of Revenue then did two remarkable things for an income tax outfit - remarkable, at least, in light of how most taxpayers regard the income tax people. One, the department believed the taxpayer's story. Two, it granted him a 30-day extension to do his homework on the tax form over again and to get another withholding slip.

As for the pooch, he survived. But they could tell from the way he acted that the income tax bill is hard to swallow, even for a dog.

Doc. Duncan Says

Some folks wonder why the kids in France still keep yelling for de Gaulle's scalp after the Government has tried so hard to meet their demands? Our guess is they were keeping up with the goings on and could see de Gaulle was looking all over for a war to entertain them.

Like Unk's war has or was supposed to, they beat em to the punch maybe and they may not be satisfied until they remove that thorn in the flesh.

H.L. Hunt Says

U.S.S.R. INCREASING ITS AGGRESSIVE POTENTIAL

The Soviet Union's leaders are unrelenting in their drive to gain weapons superiority over the U.S. In many areas, the Soviets are frighteningly close to success.

The Pentagon has acknowledged that in the past year, Russia increased its total number of land-based I.C.B.M.'s by almost 400. By mid-1969 their total may surpass that of the U.S. Said one U.S. defense planner, "There is no question they are attempting to get even with us in I.C.B.M.'s."

They are aided in this drive by short-sighted U.S. defense policies. Although the Soviets continue to build new missile sites, the U.S. refuses to increase its total.

Testimony before congressional committees reveals that the communist nuclear submarine force is becoming a serious threat to our Strategic Air Command bomber bases. The U.S.S.R. is acquiring Polaris-type submarines capable of launching missiles while submerged. These submersibles could wipe out many of our bases.

While the U.S. moves slowly in acquiring an anti-missile defense system, the communists have installed one around Moscow. Other areas of the Soviet Union will have such a system soon.

By the end of 1968, the Soviets are expected to have a new kind of missile known as a fractional orbital bombardment system, which would go into an orbit only 100 miles high much lower than that of the I.C.B.M. It would be undetectable by our radar until a few minutes before impact. Russia is not standing still. Neither must the U.S. stand still if it expects to defend the free world against aggression. Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: There are new techniques to prevent assassination; Latin American Presidents use them; most important part of crime bill is "institute of crime prevention."

WASHINGTON

Tucked away in the crime bill otherwise riddled beyond recognition, is a section which could help to prevent assassination in the future. It calls for the establishment of an institute for crime prevention and criminal justice which would conduct research on modern techniques of preventing crime rather than putting so much reliance on convicting criminals after they are caught.

Author of the institute for crime prevention is James Scheuer, a young congressman from the Bronx who had to Buck J. Edgar Hoover to get the institute idea accepted.

He points out that the United States is far behind the other countries in its techniques for preventing both crime and assassination. Latin American Presidents, for instance, are already using a magnifying glass to detect those carrying hidden weapons. This is an apparatus about the size of a flashlight which can detect hidden weapons. Had such a detector been in use at the Ambassador Hotel last week, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy would probably be alive today.

Rep. Scheuer also says that an amazing electric eye is in the process of development which automatically raises the window of a limousine in case a bullet is fired at a distance of about 1,000 feet. Had this been perfected, John F. Kennedy might be alive today had the top of his car been up in Dallas.

PREVENTING CRIME

Rep. Scheuer also proposes that the Institute of Criminal Justice study the problems of crime prevention and new techniques to prevent apprehension.

"Only 24 per cent of those who commit serious crimes are apprehended," says Scheuer. "The problem is not so much convictions but, first, prevention; second, apprehension."

"One very easy means of preventing crime is locking automobiles. Today there are 600,000 auto thefts a year, and one half of the cars are stolen because keys are left in the lock. There are other means of preventing car thefts, such as locking the gear shift, locking the wheels. If these were employed, car thefts could be cut from 600,000 to 100,000."

"We spend millions every year in researching causes of muscular dystrophy, epilepsy and heart disease," says Scheuer. "Why not spend a few million in researching the causes of the disease of crime? So far we have spent almost nothing on this disease, its prevention, its cure or its means of apprehension."

Most people don't realize it, but police departments and the FBI do not use such modern techniques as voice prints and dry blood prints. Nor have most of them perfected hair prints through the FBI used this technique in identifying James Earl Ray, the suspected assassin of Martin Luther King.

By using such modern techniques, police departments could get away from their present reliance on pre-trial confessions. This is what the supreme court has restricted as an invasion of constitutional rights.

HOOPER SAYS NO

When the Bronx congressman approached Attorney General Ramsey Clark with his idea for an institute of crime prevention, believe it or not, Clark said no. Reason was the opposition of J. Edgar Hoover, who wanted no competition with the FBI. Clark was already having enough troubles with Hoover and didn't want to antagonize him further.

Rep. Manny Clark, D-N.Y., Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, also discouraged Scheuer because of Hoover's opposition. Rep. John Rooney of the Brooklyn Democrat, was even more vigorously opposed.

Finally Scheuer went to some of his Republican friends. He got immediate help from Robert McClory, R-Ill., later from Reps. Clark McGovern, Minn., and William Craney, Fla. Later, Attorney General Clark changed his mind and okayed the Institute, and Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., was very helpful in the Senate.

So after three years of selling the idea of crime prevention as more important than crime conviction, Scheuer finally got his bill accepted by both Houses of Congress.

Note: Other sections of the Anti-Crime Bill are so weak such as the Gun Control Bill and so garbled, that the president is giving serious consideration to a veto.

-FUTURE COMMITMENTS TO AUSTRALIA-

Doing his secret talks with Australian Prime Minister John Gorton, the President urged him to help share responsibility for defending Southeast Asia. Specifically, he asked Gorton to leave Australian troops in Malaysia and Singapore after the British pull out.

Gorton replied bluntly that the Australians were willing to stay in Southeast Asia as long as the Americans did. But he asked a significant question. Would the United States come to their aid if the Australians were attacked on the Malay Peninsula? He noted that the Australian-New Zealand-United States Defense Pact contained an escape clause.

The President assured Gorton that as long as he remained in the White House the United States "will not read the fine print in the treaty."

To this Prime Minister Gorton noted that Johnson wasn't running for reelection. He asked whether the next president would give the same commitment. LBJ acknowledged that he couldn't speak for all the candidates, and he declined even to make his own commitment public. He pointed out that discretion is sometimes the best policy in an election year.

Sports Corner

It was baseball that St. Louis and Cincinnati played Sunday, but statistics of the doubleheader made it seem anything but the game known as the national pastime.

The two teams split the twin-bill, scoring a total of 31 runs on 53 hits and sending 19 pitchers to the mound in six hours and 17 minutes of play.

Before the largest crowd at Crosley Field this season - 28,141, the Cardinals took the first game 10-8 and the Reds captured the second in 12 innings 7-6.

Before the marathon ended, fans saw four Cincinnati pitchers who participated in the first game set into second-game action and two moundsmen from St. Louis performing double duty.

Ron Willis of the Cards took the first game from Bob Lee and George Culver of the Reds captured the second over Steve Carlton.

Reds' Manager Dave Bristol said, of the second-game victory, "Cincinnati is not going to fold up. The players showed that today."

The Reds sent the game into extra innings after overcoming a 6-0 deficit.

Cardinals' Manager Red Schoendienst's reply, "We simply didn't score enough runs to win the second game."

In the first game, Reds' starting pitcher Gerry Arrigo blew most of an eight-run lead in the fifth and had to leave with two out.

"I started the game with a pulled back muscle but didn't let Bristol know about it," he said. "It bothered me - but with an eight-run lead I had hoped to hold on."

The temperature late in the afternoon registered near a 100 degrees.

Leo Cardenas doubled home Tony Perez from first base with two out in the last of the 12th inning to give Cincinnati its victory in the nightcap.

Vada Pinson's third homer and Mack Jones' two-run homer sparked the Reds' comeback.

The tying run crossed in the eighth when Johnny Bench's sacrifice fly scored Lee May, who had singled and gone to third on a double by Perez.

In the first game, St. Louis expended for 10 runs with two out in the fifth inning, wiping out an 8-0 Cincinnati lead.

Lou Brock climaxing the fifth-inning rally, greeted reliever Bill Kelso with a three-run homer.

The Cards got to Atlanta tonight with Larry Jaster 4-2 scheduled to start for St. Louis and Phil Niekro 5-4 for the Braves.

The Missouri Department of Conservation has won awards in three categories of international competition for its informational work through radio, television and exhibits, and in addition was recognized for having one of the nation's top information programs.

The competition was in the American Association of Conservation Information (AACI), an organization of information and public relations sections of state and provincial conservation agencies.

Missouri's three specialized awards were all in categories supervised by Herschel (Woody) Bledsoe of Jefferson City. Missouri won first place in the television category with Bledsoe's weekly show, "Let's Go Hunting and Fishing with Woody Bledsoe," seen on station KOMU-TV, Columbia, Missouri. The first place in the radio category was presented for the Conservation Department's series of radio programs promoting better forestry practices, "Woody and the Tall Timber Trio." The radio series has been running weekly for 17 years, and is now used by 24 radio stations throughout Missouri. In Missouri the show has been recognized as one of the major educational tools in combating forest fires. Missouri also won a second-place award in the exhibits category with its exhibit in the Cape Girardeau Southeast Missouri Fair. Bledsoe is the department's exhibit supervisor. First place in that category went to Ontario for an exhibit in Expo 67.

Missouri's other award was a second place for its over-all conservation information program. That award is based on total points given for participation in the awards program and is an indication for the scope as well as the quality of the information work done by a member agency. It means that the Missouri Conservation Department was judged to have one of the best all-around information programs in the nation. Last year, Missouri won first place in this category.

Past AACI awards won by the Missouri Conservation Department include three first place awards in a row for the magazine, "The Missouri Conservationist," first place awards for nearly every major wildlife movie produced by the department; and first for many of its publications, news releases, photographs, and special information programs. Many second and third place awards have also gone to Missouri.

Information Officer James F. Keefe of the Missouri Department of Conservation accepted the awards at a special awards banquet here this week.

Memphis' Turner Signs With Vandy

MEMPHIS, Tenn. AP - The recruiting chase after 7-foot-2 Steve Turner ended when he signed a basketball scholarship agreement with Vanderbilt University.

Turner, 17, was signed Monday night by Vandy Coach Roy Skinner in a news conference called at the youth's home in suburban Bartlett.

Turner, who doctors say could grow to 7-foot-5, was sought by more than 100 colleges. He reportedly had narrowed his choice in recent weeks to Vanderbilt, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Bids Called for New Dexter City Hall

DEXTER - A resolution calling for bids on a new city hall for Dexter was passed unanimously at a meeting of the city council Monday night. And will be opened at the council meeting, June 17.

Plans for the city hall and other city offices were drawn by Gene Nichols, contractor, who was hired by the city to draw the plans and specifications.

The new city facilities will be on East Stoddard Street.

Other action included granting a plumbing and heating license to Joe Hunter, report on a petition requesting that the Lee addition in East Dexter be brought into the city was made by Ward Three Councilman James Gunn at the request of Russell Brower. Roy Jackson was asked to check into the request.

Trees at the edge of the alley were also discussed at the request of the owners of Duffie Laundry, and Jackson was also asked by the Mayor to view the trees and make a recommendation as to cutting them down or trimming to avoid contact with wire.

A street light at the dead end of North Walnut Street was also recommended since the area is "dark", Aldermen reported.

An ordinance allowing disbursements in the amount of $25,956.41 for May was passed. The board also voted to purchase a 1968 Dodge pickup from Ester-Walker-Knight purchase price quoted $2319 or $1700 and trade-in.

Discussion of two houses on one water meter in which the owner is paying two minimum bills was brought up by Ward One Alderman Sherman Boone who pointed out that as many as six apart meters are on one meter and pay only one minimum.

Mayor Willis Conner requested that O. D. Hill, Water Superintendent, check into the matter and make a report. It was also pointed out that a fruit stand had been opened on S Highway 114 and that a city license should be purchased by the owners.

Weeds on Poplar Street a request for a two-way stop sign on East Oak at Cora which was passed by ordinance, need for an additional street light in the Park-Olive street area near the Ward Three voting house which was recommended, were also brought up by the Board.

Dexter Moves

To Get Out Vote Tuesday

DEXTER - City officials, Chamber of Commerce leaders, and others are urging Dexter voters to give an overwhelming vote of support Tuesday to the "Fram Corporation Bonds" at a special election Wednesday.

"We are anxious about the matter, since we are afraid many persons will forget the election entirely, or else think that issue will pass, and will fail to go to the polls," one city official said today.

Officials emphasized that the bond issue, if passed, will assure the new Fram Corporation factory for Dexter but will not raise our taxes "one penny". Rental revenue from the Fram Corporation will be used to retire the bonds, with no increase in taxes for local persons it was emphasized.

Voting will be at three polling places in Dexter, and civic groups here are anxious to have a big turnout of voters.

"We need to do more than merely pass this issue", one city official said. "We need to pass it by an overwhelming majority to show to the state and to other prospective industries that Dexter wants industry and is willing to make every effort to secure it."

For that reason, officials are hopeful that all voters will go to the polls and will vote "Yes" for the bonds.

Photography suffered a grievous loss with the sudden passing of Ivan Dmitri, founder and director of the Photography in the Fine Arts project.

He was a rare human being whose tremendous talents, integrity and vision commanded international respect, while his cheerful smile, his gift of gab and his deep sense of humanity made him a personal friend of most everyone he encountered.

I first met Dmitri 15 years ago when he was principal speaker at a photography short course at Kent State University. He captivated the audience with his adventures and pictures as a globe-trotting photographer for the Saturday Evening Post and other magazines.

But it was after he conceived, started and poured his heart into the first Photography in the Fine Arts exhibition in 1959 that I became involved with his projects and developed the highest admiration for his ability and achievements.

There have been five PFA exhibitions. They opened at Manhattan's prestigious Metropolitan Museum of Art before moving on to more than 150 museums throughout the United States and Canada. His idea inspired countless photographers by giving them a high-level goal to shoot for. And it enriched the lives of millions of viewers.

Amazingly enough, Dmitri led a dual life and had three highly successful careers.

Born in 1908 in North Dakota, son of a Congregational preacher, his real name was Levon West, a descendant of Benjamin West, famous early American painter. With this heritage, it is not surprising that he started out as an artist. While in his early 20s the name of Levon West was known in art circles as one of America's great etchers. His etchings won awards and international honors and were bought by collectors and leading art museums.

With the Depression of the 1930s, however, luxuries like etchings were put aside so he turned to another profession, photography. To protect the name of Levon West, artist, he sought a new name. A friend suggested an exotic Russian combination: Ivan Dmitri. He adopted it and the name became famous in its own right for 25 years as one of America's foremost color photographers.

About 10 years ago he shelved everything to devote his entire time to an inspirational idea. He called it Photography in the Fine Arts. Simply stated, he felt that people should be able to go to all museums to see the finest examples of photography just as they went there to see fine paintings, sculptures and other examples of man's creative artistic abilities.

He proposed to assemble the outstanding photographs through art circles as one of America's photographic organizations and sources. The entries judged to be qualified by photographers were then to be submitted to a large panel of museum directors and curators for final esthetic distillation and selection. Those that emerged formed the PFA exhibitions.

The project encountered early opposition and stirred up some controversy among photographers who objected to a final judging by museum people. But the program moved ahead and gained momentum and universal prestige.

Today it is safe to assess Ivan Dmitri's efforts and say that his dream has been achieved with Photography in the Fine Arts.

And, thankfully, Ivan Dmitri lived long enough to see its fulfillment. Now the question remains: Who is there to carry on the job with the same devotion, integrity and energy?

Photography's tribute to Dmitri's memory should be the maintenance—and expansion—of PFA as a lasting and living monument.

Protective Eyewear Helps

AP Newsfeatures

Besppectacled little Johnny on first base held out his hands to catch the ball as it hurtled toward him. Somehow he missed, and it smashed into his right eye, shattering the glass. . . .

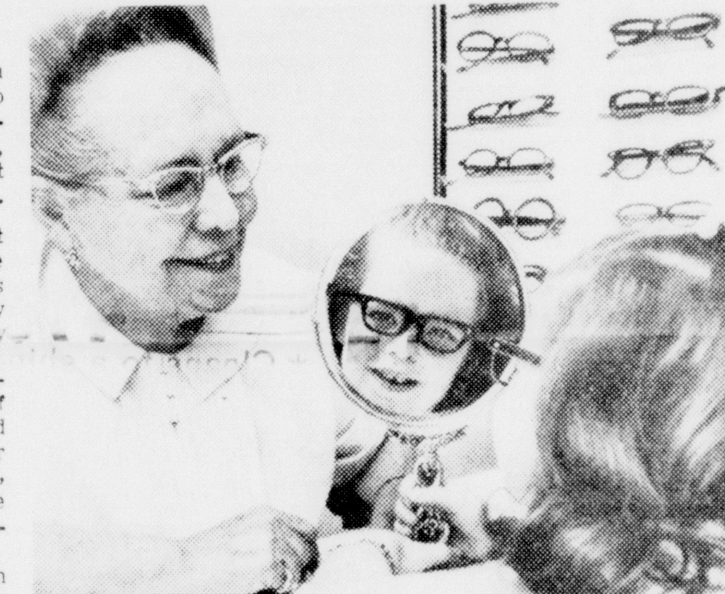

With that tragic accident Johnny became a statistic—one of the half-million Americans who suffer serious eye injury at home and in school every year.

About 90 per cent of these injuries could be prevented if these children and adults had been wearing protective eyewear says Dr. Arthur H. Keeney, ophthalmologist-in-chief at the Wills Eye Hospital in Philadelphia.

The Guild of Prescription Opticians of America—those men and women who manufacture and fit glasses to doctors' prescriptions—have launched a campaign to make the public aware of protective eyewear. The Safety Council has enthusiastically endorsed the program.

Says Dr. Keeney, who is the program's honorary chairman: "If heat-treated, impact-resistant safety glass or plastic lenses had been invented and available before ordinary glass lenses, hardly anyone today would knowingly endanger their eyes from ordinary glasses that can disintegrate into blinding shafts under slight impact."

Protective eyewear is made of tough, shatter-resistant glass that has been heated in a special furnace and then chilled rapidly. To qualify, it must pass the Drop Ball Test, established by the United States of America Standards Institute, withstanding the impact of a 5 8 inch steel ball dropped from a height of 50 inches.

HER FIRST PAIR—This little girl seems to like what she sees. Helping her is Mrs. Edwin Scott, Hartford, Conn., optician, who has convinced the parents she should have impact-resistant lenses.

"An ordinary lens would break into needle-sharp fragments under such stress, while a protective lens will pass this stringent test," says Dr. Keeney. Of course, any glass can break under sufficient stress, but even if the impact resistant lenses do break they will not splinter and gouge the eye. Plastic won't break at all.

Dr. Keeney says protective eyewear is a must for all children wearing glasses and for adults engaged in hazardous occupations, the hobbyist working with power tools, the homeowner burning leaves, trimming bushes, performing household tasks.

Does protective eyewear cost more? A few dollars more, but it will last for the length of the prescription. No new pair is needed everytime the old one is dropped or sat upon.

More than one-half of all Americans 6 years or older wear glasses today, and they are increasingly style-conscious. Protective eyewear doesn't look any different from ordinary glasses.

The fact that children's glasses look just like the ones worn by their parents, says Mrs. Edwin Scott, the Guild's director of women's services is one reason the resistance many children had to their first pair of eyeglasses has been overcome.

She says an added safety factor that parents should be aware of is metal braces imbedded in the frame and running across the front to help prevent twisting and breaking.

Swedish Singers on Ice

SKATE FOR THEIR SINGING—Margot Rodin, who sings Dorabella in Mozart's "Cosi fan Tutte" at the Royal Opera of Stockholm, and Sven Olov Eliasson, Stockholm's new Lohengrin, go skating in Kungstradgarden Park during a public relations stunt for the opera's Athletic Association.

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Lohengrin took Dorabella by the hand and together they floated out on the ice, while King Gustav III of Sweden chased by, so vigorously that he burst his pants. King Marke and King Gustav's little page had enough trouble just keeping their vertical positions.

These five characters from operas, in their private roles as opera singers Sven Olov Eliasson, Margot Rodin, Ragnar Ulfung, Bengt Rundgren and Birgit Nordin, had heeded the call from the Athletic Association of the Stockholm Opera and ransacked their attics for their old skates to help the association in promoting public relations.

The singers, accustomed to three-hour performances, did not last for more than half an hour on the skating rink, however, and the hot dog stand did beautiful business during that time.

Ragnar Ulfung, the big clown of the Stockholm Opera, who had just finished off "Carmen" the night before, was happily chasing his female colleagues around the rink, doing pirouettes and jumps around them until they almost collapsed laughing.

One of the fittest members of the Swedish Royal Opera, this happy Norwegian has many times stunned his audiences by turning perfect somersaults on stage.

Petite Birgit Nordin seemed to feel very much at home in her trousers. She is used to wearing them on stage, too, during her nine years as an opera singer she has sung 12 boys' parts. Those who have seen her as the amorous little page boy Cherubino in Mozart's "Le Nozze di Figaro" say there is nobody like her.

Both Ragnar Ulfung and Miss Nordin appeared in Verdi's "Un Ballo in Maschera" when the Stockholm Royal Opera performed at Lohengrin summer—the King Gustav III, she, again, as a page boy. Sven Olov Eliasson sang the part of the King in the second performance of the same opera. Bengt Rundgren, the fourth ice skater, was highly praised for his King Marke in Wagner's "Tristan und Isolde."

Now this stately bass has been asked to return to Montreal and sing the same part.

In fact, all five of these bold operative ice skaters are going international. Ragnar Ulfung is going to sing in concerts in Pittsburgh and London, and will also be singing regularly at the Hamburger Staatsoper. Birgit Nordin will spend the whole summer in London. Margot Rodin has just

If You Were the Judge

Suit Against Doctor Fails-No Damage

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Grace had a strong will and a stronger won't. For years and years she refused to marry "the boy next door", even though she loved him, because she believed that she could not have children. It was only when her family doctor interceded and told her that she could in fact have children that she flopped into her boyfriend's arms and married him. But, for years thereafter all Grace's attempts to become a mother were futile. The closest she ever came to becoming a mother was when her cat had kittens.

Terribly upset, Grace finally sued her family doctor for deceiving her.

"He tricked me," she complained to a judge. "He told me I could have children when he knew it wasn't true. Had I not been deceived, I'd never have gotten married."

"So I made a mistake," was the doctor's kindly answer. "Nobody's right all the time. Besides, what was the harm done?"

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the doctor pay for Grace's having gotten married?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held that there can be no recovery for deception unless there has been damage done. In this case, concluded the judge, even if the doctor had been guilty of deception, Grace suffered no damage since she married a man whom she loved and which was all for the best.

(Based upon a 1951 Supreme Court Decision.)

He encouraged the future leaders to actively seek out problems in the education, farming and business, and not shy away from, but welcome the challenge to solve them.

Alluding to his own profession, Brown told the audience that "there is a demand for fresh talent... imaginative creative people, who understand the value of our competitive free enterprise system and will work to preserve it."

"Business," he said, "knows it cannot operate independently, as if it were an island." Business and profit, he said, today go hand in hand.

Finally, he both challenged and warned the students that the greatest danger the country faces is not the myriad, seemingly, unsolvable problems but its "apathetic people who lack initiative to work for a solution to these problems."

Is this penchant for violence global or American? The figures speak for themselves. In 1967, 5200 Americans died of gunshot wounds. In France it was 20. In Belgium it was 12. Of the last 21 presidents of the United States, six have been shot at and four have been killed. According to Dr. John Spiegel, psychiatrist and director of the Center for the Study of Violence at Brandeis University, "The United States presidency may well be the highest risk job in the world."

Why do Americans love violence? Part of the reason must surely be rooted in our bloody history beginning with our massacre of the American Indians. Then came the early frontier days which glorified the man with the fastest draw was king.

Traditional American games are cowboys and Indians and cops and robbers. The "good" man shoots the bad man and that's the way to get rid of people you don't like. We buy our children toy guns and holsters and cap pistols and soldier uniforms and teach them that killing is manly and war is fun.

Now that Bobby Kennedy has been slain by an assassin's bullet, the President has appointed a commission to study violence in our land. Until the commission comes up with some answers I would like to offer a few suggestions of my own.

Hound your congressmen, senators and legislators until we get some decent gun control laws, both federal and state. Those we have now are pathetically inadequate.

Don't buy your children toy guns or teach them killing games. Don't allow them to watch violence on TV. Don't let them go to movies that deal with murder.

Train your children to settle their differences in a non-violent manner. If you see signs of extreme hostility or anger or unusual quietness and an inability to relate to others take him to a specialist. Don't wait until he grows up and kills somebody. Teach your children that gentleness is more powerful than brutality, that mercy is more satisfying than revenge—that love is stronger than hate.

violence? And love it we must. We adored Bonnie and Clyde. It broke records and won prizes. Women flocked to buy leather coats like Bonnie's. Men bought checkered suits like Clyde's. We lapped up Truman Capote's book, "In Cold Blood." Millions of Americans were fascinated by the slaughter of those nice Kansas folks. Our favorite TV shows glorify crime, vengeance and brutality.

Is this penchant for violence global or American? The figures speak for themselves. In 1967, 5200 Americans died of gunshot wounds. In France it was 20. In Belgium it was 12. Of the last 21 presidents of the United States, six have been shot at and four have been killed. According to Dr. John Spiegel, psychiatrist and director of the Center for the Study of Violence at Brandeis University, "The United States presidency may well be the highest risk job in the world."

Why do Americans love violence? Part of the reason must surely be rooted in our bloody history beginning with our massacre of the American Indians. Then came the early frontier days which glorified the man with the fastest draw was king.

Traditional American games are cowboys and Indians and cops and robbers. The "good" man shoots the bad man and that's the way to get rid of people you don't like. We buy our children toy guns and holsters and cap pistols and soldier uniforms and teach them that killing is manly and war is fun.

Now that Bobby Kennedy has been slain by an assassin's bullet, the President has appointed a commission to study violence in our land. Until the commission comes up with some answers I would like to offer a few suggestions of my own.

Hound your congressmen, senators and legislators until we get some decent gun control laws, both federal and state. Those we have now are pathetically inadequate.

Don't buy your children toy guns or teach them killing games. Don't allow them to watch violence on TV. Don't let them go to movies that deal with murder.

Train your children to settle their differences in a non-violent manner. If you see signs of extreme hostility or anger or unusual quietness and an inability to relate to others take him to a specialist. Don't wait until he grows up and kills somebody. Teach your children that gentleness is more powerful than brutality, that mercy is more satisfying than revenge—that love is stronger than hate.

Not All Alcoholics Wives Fit Pattern

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a slashing broadside against women who marry alcoholics. You said the vast majority of these women need to be martyrs, that they would rather have their husbands drunk than sober because if gives them an opportunity to be saints. You also stated most women who divorce alcoholics turn right around and marry other boozers.

For years I have been an admirer of your column—especially your understanding of alcoholism and your sympathy for those who live with it. I wonder if perhaps that particular answer was written while you were out to lunch. It didn't sound like the Ann Landers I have been reading for years.

I didn't know my husband was an alcoholic until after we had been married several months. He was so clever at concealing his liquor consumption that I could write a book about it. (Gin in the hotwater bottle which he took bed at night, even during the summer months. Bourbon disguised as cough medicine. Vodka in the glove compartment of the car in a cleaning fluid bottle.)

Your notion that wives of alcoholics use their husband's drinking as a conversation piece was not the case with me. I was too ashamed.

After eight years of agony, my doctor advised me to give my husband a choice, the bottle or me and the kids. He chose the bottle. I divorced him and my life has been a comparative heaven ever since. Will I marry another alcoholic? Never. I refuse a second date with any man who has more than two drinks during an evening.

Please print my letter. I feel you owe it to the wives of alcoholics who do NOT fit your description. —FREE AT LAST

Dear Free: Here's your letter and my apologies to the wives who do not follow the classic pattern. I received dozens of letters lambasting me for my all-inclusive attack and I hereby acknowledge that the criticism was justified.

Dear Ann Landers: A neighbor with whom I have been friendly has a heart of gold but she has a slam-bang, unrefined approach which I find abrasive. For example, I have yet to hear her say, "Will you please..." or "I'd appreciate it if you would..." It's always "I want you to..." or "Get me a such and such..."

I've become accustomed to her lack of grace and I accept it but it's pretty hard to take orders from her children, ages 10 and 12. They speak just like their mother.

This afternoon her 12-year-old son appeared at the door. He said, "Mom says you should give me your vacuum sweeper. Ours broke." I replied, "I'd be happy to lend you my vacuum sweeper, but don't you think it would be nice if you tacked a 'please' onto that?" The boy looked at me as if I had two heads.

Do you feel as my husband does that I should not attempt to teach these children manners because it is not my business? —FRANKLY SPEAKING

Dear Fran: I'm not all sure you can teach them anything. Children imitate the day-to-day language they hear. It's worth a try, however, so give it a whirl.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

Lord, teach us to pray (Luke 11:1).

PRAYER: Father forgive us, for we do not know what we do. Teach us to pray earnestly, humbly, truthfully with our heart and being. Teach us to listen that we may know how and where we can be used to build Thy kingdom. Amen.

Active Society Role Urged for Seniors

CAPE GIRARDEAU --

Speaking to 745 graduating seniors Sunday night, Chester Brown, New York, Chairman of the Board of Allied Chemical Corporation, warned them that unless they take an active part in the affairs of American society, it is in danger of being led by "destructive revolutionists" down the "path of chaos and disorder."

Brown spoke at the college's 94th commencement held at Houck stadium.

Addressing himself to today's problems, Brown set the tone of his speech by saying that he knew our's is not an altogether wine and roses society, but "As a businessman I believe we have the best there is, even though it is not perfect."

"I honestly believe," he said, "a boy from Southeast Missouri could not have made it if 'big business' were bad and 'freedom' were phony."

"I have lived with some of the evolution of business—big and little—and can offer you some observations based on that. Not to preach, not to theorize. Simply to warn you and to encourage you as you join this thing called society which really means 'freedom,' this country's overwhelming asset."

Brown continued by saying that because of the rapid vicissitudes of American society, big business has had to make itself aware of its social responsibility. Quoting former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare John W. Gardner, he said: "We are caught up in a maelstrom of social change. We are being swept along—swiftly and unpredictably—by interlocking revolutions in science, transportation, agriculture, communications, bio-medical research, education and demography."

In his judgement, Brown said, the present policies followed by many "have not kept pace with the realities of today, the realities of these emerging forces."

He then challenged the seniors to take note of this by saying "Will you use that

Moose Commended for Saving Helicopter

ASCOM, KOREA - It was a routine reconnaissance flight along the demilitarized zone for the two helicopters from the second aviation battalion.

Then, a troubled call from the trailing craft brought the first chopper around for a look. Flames and smoke were pouring in a long stream for the second chopper as it began to lose altitude. A forced landing was made under partial power at an unimproved airstrip.

With no facilities at the airstrip, a rescue team was flown in to evacuate the helicopter. Slings in a new engine tools and all necessary equipment by copter, the team went to work.

Less than seven hours after the forced landing, the chopper was back in the air, heading for home with a new engine and running gear.

The five men of the rescue team who performed this feat were honored with the presentation of letters of appreciation and certificates of proficiency by Co. F.J. Donoghue, commander, 20th general support group at group headquarters.

Receiving the awards were Sp6 Jimmy O'Bryan, Sp5 Thomas Beamon, Sp5 Donald Maughan, crew chiefs from Company A, 2nd aviation battalion, and Sp5 Charles Moose, senior aircraft engine repairman from Sikeston, Mo., and Sp4 Gayland Boyd, engine specialist both of Company E, 702nd Maintenance Battalion.

Ten trips were required by the first chopper to bring all the equipment and the new engine from Ascom to R-107. Everything was brought in by slinging the equipment under the helicopter by cables. Republic of Korea Army soldiers lent a helping hand with the heavy work.

Previously, the team was lauded for saving a CH-21 helicopter downed in a river south of Soo-Won. Working in the dead of winter, hampered by ice, water, snow and shifting sand, the team was able to fly the craft out after extensive repairs.

Moose is the son of C. H. Moose, 324 Benton St., Sikeston, Mo., and Louie Vinson, 710 Allen Blvd., Sikeston.

He is senior aircraft engine repairman with E Co 702 Maint. Bn., Ascom, Korea.

A 1960 graduate of Sikeston High school, Moose arrived overseas Aug. 18. Before his present assignment he was stationed at Fort Eustis, Va.

He formerly was a commercial pilot employed by Sikeston Aviation Service.

Anderson Lauds

New Consumer Protection Law

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - Atty. Gen. Norman H. Anderson estimated today his new consumer protection division has saved Missourians more than $133,000 in its first six months of operation.

He said 964 complaints of allegedly fraudulent practices have been processed and the average of 160 a month is increasing. The office has obtained 27 injunctions has another case pending and has obtained 26 voluntary compliances.

Anderson reported the greatest areas of complaints involve sale of insurance, wigs, automobiles, automobile repairs and automobile upholstery. "The mere presence of a consumer protection law," Anderson said, "with its ability to obtain injunctions and enforce heavy fines, has eliminated many fraudulent and deceptive practices in the state."

Saigon Undergoes Daytime Shelling

Blaiberg Develops Hepatitis

French Crisis Flares Anew

SAIGON (AP) - The Viet Cong switched to daytime bombardment of Saigon today, slamming some 30 big rockets into the heart of the city during the morning rush hour. The barrage killed at least 19 Vietnamese civilians and wounded 106.

It was the heaviest casualty toll and the first major daytime bombardment since the Viet Cong began daily shelling of the capital 38 days ago. The barrages have killed at least 128 persons and wounded 519.

The six-foot 122mm rockets exploded in the vicinity of major government buildings but did little damage to most of them. However, one landed on the roof of the government communications headquarters and knocked out most telecommunications abroad, including lines leased by a number of American firms.

The barrage began about 6:15 a.m., and a little more than five hours before Gen. William C. Westmoreland relinquished his command of U.S. troops in Vietnam and left for Manila, Honolulu and Washington.

Westmoreland told a farewell news conference Monday it was almost impossible "to stop the indiscriminate firing of a few mortar rounds, a few rocket rounds, in consideration of the wide open and very chopped up and difficult country around Saigon."

He conceded that "civilians are getting killed and some houses are being damaged," but he added, as he has said before: "it's of really no military consequence. It does make headlines, I must say."

Some observers disagreed. The shelling is spreading fear among the population and the undermining confidence in the South Vietnamese government, they said.

The rockets were fired from a rice paddy area about six miles due east of the center of the capital. Counter artillery fire was directed at the area and just after the barrage troops of the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment swept the area.

The Viet Cong apparently have rocket units on all sides of Saigon, having shelled the capital from the north, west and south as well as the east. A U.S. spokesman said it would take at least four divisions of troops to throw a protective circle around Saigon seven miles out, the maximum range of the big Russian rockets.

Instead, the U.S. command says, allied troops constantly patrol the outskirts of Saigon and observation planes and armed helicopters patrol the area 24 hours a day.

Allied radar installations pick up the trajectory of the incoming rockets and guide the counter barrages toward the enemy firing positions. Allied forces also use helicopter gunships, fighter-bombers and flareships against the enemy firing positions and send out ground sweeps by infantrymen to comb the area.

However, U.S. officers point out that the enemy gunners can get off several rounds quickly, pull out before the allies can pinpoint the firing positions and retaliate, and resume firing from another previously established position.

The rocket attack today was the 23rd since May 5, when the Viet Cong started a "peace talks" offensive against Saigon. U.S. officers say the Communist command is trying to give the impression of military strength to back up their demands at the Paris talks.

Court Upholds Police Stop-Frisk Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court, accused for years of handcuffing the police, has bowed to the judgment of the cop on the beat.

As a practical matter, said eight of the nine justices Monday, he can't be expected to run off to a judge for a warrant every time his practiced eye picks out suspicious behavior.

Moreover, the eight agreed, it is only reasonable that he pat down the suspect or suspects if he fears his questions may be answered with a bullet or a knife-sweep.

Driver Goes To Sleep, Hurt In Bumpy Ride

The state patrol reported a single injury Monday in a highway accident at 10:30 p.m. on Interstate 55, one half mile south of the Cape Girardeau county line.

Harry G. Menken, 65, Cape Girardeau, driving a 1965 Pontiac, apparently fell asleep, ran off the road and came to a stop in the median.

He was taken to Southeast Missouri hospital, Cape Girardeau, where he was treated for cuts on his scalp, arm, and a possible head injury on the bumpy trip.

The patrol stated he would be charged with careless and imprudent driving.

A LARGE CROWD turned out on opening day of the new Dexter swimming pool Monday. The main section of the pool is 165 feet long and 42 feet wide. Included in the pool complex are a wading pool for children, diving well and bath house facilities. The pool cost $116,000.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) - Dr. Philip Blaiberg, the world's longest surviving heart transplant patient, received emergency treatment for a liver complication today. Groote Schuur Hospital announced.

In London, Dr. Christian N. Barnard, who headed the surgical team that gave Blaiberg a new heart Jan. 2, said Blaiberg has hepatitis and his condition is "not critical."

Barnard, on his way to Cape Town after visiting the Netherlands, said he talked by telephone with doctors at Groote Schuur Hospital who gave him a report on Blaiberg's condition. Hepatitis is an inflammation of the liver.

"His condition is not critical," Barnard told newsmen. "But I am disappointed that this happened. I have not given up hope."

Blaiberg, 59, returned to the hospital for routine tests June 4, five months and two days after he received the world's third transplanted human heart. He was transferred Monday to the special sterilized suite he had occupied after the operation.

Meanwhile Britain's heart transplant patient, Frederick West, 45, was suffering from a chest infection that developed three days ago. But the National Heart Hospital in London said he improved slightly Monday night and the improvement was maintained today. West was operated on May 3.

Blaiberg received his new heart in the Groote Schuur team's second transplant. The first was performed on Louis Washkansky Dec. 3 but he died 18 days later of pneumonia.

Since the historic first transplant operation on Washkansky, 20 other heart transplants have been performed around the world. Six of the recipients are still alive.

Abstentions On Nuclear Treaty High

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) - The treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons won overwhelming approval in the United Nations Monday, but more nations abstained on the vote than expected.

The vote in the General Assembly's main political committee was 92 for the resolution, four against it 22 abstaining and four absent. Delegates had expected between 100 and 105 U.N. members to vote for the treaty.

The committee adopted a 48 nation resolution commending the treaty and asking that it be opened for signature and ratification as soon as possible. The assembly will give the resolution final approval later this week, winding up the session.

Of the five nuclear powers, the Soviet Union, the United States and Britain cosponsored the resolution and voted for it. France abstained, and Communist China, which is not a member of the United Nations, called the treaty a Soviet-U.S. plot against revolutionary peoples.

Nuclear powers signing the treaty pledge not to transfer nuclear weapons to countries that don't have them.

PARIS (AP) - A Communist union militant was killed today in a clash with riot police in a provincial city as student and striker turmoil threatened to plunge France into a new major crisis.

In Paris, Latin Quarter university students rioted and built barricades and appealed to the trade unions and people of Paris to join them in a mass demonstration tonight against President Charles de Gaulle's government.

Several thousand Citroen auto plant workers streamed toward the Labor Ministry shouting for "freedom to work" after having been turned back from their plant by strike pickets.

The prefect (governor) of the Sochaux region, Bernard Vaugon, told a news conference that the union member identified only as Beylot, 24, was fatally wounded by a bullet in his chest. The prefect did not say who fired the shot. The bullet was being examined to attempt to determine its origin.

Sharp fighting between riot police and strikers broke out at the Peugeot auto plant at Sochaux after workers had voted narrowly, 2,664-2,615, Monday for a return to work.

The worst fighting occurred when strikers overwhelmed a riot police car, took guns from the car and set it afire. Several shots rang out.

Authorities said that, besides the dead man, 11 strikers and two riot police were injured.

The metal workers branch of the Communist-run General Confederation of Labor - France's strongest union - issued a statement charging Beylot was a "victim of aggression of the police placed in the services of the bosses by the government, against the metal workers fighting for their demands."

The Peugeot plant strikers are among several hundred thousand holdouts demanding higher wages and other benefits. The death was the fourth attributed directly or indirectly to the student and strike crisis which began a month ago.

The first was a Lyon police commissioner, Rene Lacroix, who was crushed by a stone-laden truck pushed by student demonstrators.

A real estate worker, Philippe Matheron, 26, was found stabbed to death May 26 after a Paris Latin Quarter riot. Gilles Tautin, 17-year-old high school student drowned Monday in the Seine River at Meulan, near Paris. Tautin was with a group of students who were attempting to flee on coming gendarmes.

The student rioting early today in Paris was touched off by Tautin's death, which the students blamed on the gendarmes.

"We are not looking for a fight," Jacques Sauvageot, chief of the National Students' Union, told a news conference, "but if it is forced on us, we accept."

Daniel Cohn-Bendit, 23, a leader of the radical "March 22 group" of students, was at the news conference but took no part in its proceedings.

Angry university students ranged through the Latin Quarter in Paris through the night and clashed with riot police.

Tie Vote Stymies Tighter Gun Law Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Johnson's latest bid for a tougher gun control law was defeated today in the House Judiciary Committee by a tie vote but Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., held out hope for a favorable vote next week.

The committee deadlocked 16-16 on Celler's motion to report immediately the bill submitted by the administration Monday.

That measure, introduced in the House by Celler and in the Senate by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., would forbid mail order sales of rifles and shotguns as well as of handguns.

Rep. William M. McCulloch, R-Ohio, senior committee Republican, voted against immediate action but made a motion to reconsider the vote. It was agreed the committee would vote again June 20.

Celler said he expected a compromise version of the legislation would be approved at that time.

Congress sent to the President last week a measure which would ban mail-order sales of pistols. But Johnson, speaking in strong terms

Screams Frighten Away Assailant

Screams of an 18-year-old married woman apparently frightened away a male assailant, who apparently had climbed in the back seat of her car while it was parked last night at 235 North Handy St.

Mrs. Glenda Pruett, wife of Wendell Pruett of East Prairie, left the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Clements, 235 North Handy St., where she is employed as a nurse for Mrs. Clements at 11:30 p.m.

Her assailant reached forward and began choking her when she reached the viaduct on route CC one mile east of Sikeston.

When she pressed the horn on her automobile, a 1963 Ford, her mother, Mrs. Dewitt Thatcher, reported, Mrs. Pruett's assailant tightened his grip on her neck. This nearly caused the driver to wreck her car. A necklace was broken in the struggle to keep her from calling for help.

Her mother said her daughter almost struck a telephone pole when she approached a driveway to her home.

When she reached the house she jumped out and screamed. Her father and a brother rushed from the house but the man in the back seat had disappeared in the darkness.

Her father called the state patrol who investigated, but Mrs. Pruett was unable to describe the man other than to tell officers that he spoke with a foreign accent.

On her drive home, Mrs. Pruett went past the home of her parents, who live in the Bement Baptist church parsonage.

Public Employee Strike Bans Ineffective

Some of the 17 states with laws banning strikes by public employees have learned the hard way that such measures—even those with tough penalties—are not a guarantee against walkouts.

Thousands of teachers, sanitation workers and others on city, county and state pay rolls have struck in defiance of the state laws. In some cases they have suffered minor, if any, consequences despite stiff penalty provisions.

Not all of the 17 state measures call for penalties.

Antistrike laws covering public employees are in effect in Massachusetts, Delaware, Illinois, New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Florida, Virginia, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Nebraska, South Dakota, Texas, Hawaii and Oregon.

In Illinois, there are no statutory provisions specifically banning strikes by public employees. But the Illinois Supreme Court has ruled that strikes by public service workers—including teachers—are unlawful.

A 1947 Pennsylvania law bars strikes by public employees under penalty of dismissal. The law provides that if a striker subsequently is rehired, he shall not be hired back at a salary higher than he received when he struck; receive no salary increase for three years; shall lose his tenure and be on probation for five years.

But the strong-language law was ineffective on two occasions recently, an 11-day strike by 1,000 Pittsburgh teachers of the Pennsylvania Federation of Teachers, and a massive protest march by 20,000 members of the Pennsylvania State Education Association.

Florida has an antistrike law for public employees, but its constitutionality is being questioned by a suit pending in the Florida Supreme Court.

Some 25,000 of Florida's 60,000 teachers walked out in February. Most were accepted back into classrooms without punishment following their mass "resignations."

But some were not taken back and others were rehired without tenure. The law provides that those who strike or resign without 30 days' notice can't be rehired for a year.

Virginia law prohibits any agency of the state or local political subdivisions from negotiating or bargaining with unions and union leaders. The public employer may obtain a court injunction against striking. If it is violated, the union can be fined up to $10,000 a day for criminal contempt.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and the New York Legislature fostered a study which produced the Taylor law, enacted last year. It forbids strikes, but does not mandate dismissal of violators. The law switches penalty emphasis from rank-and-file employees to their unions and union leaders. The public employer may obtain a court injunction against striking. If it is violated, the union can be fined up to $10,000 a day for criminal contempt.

Such an injunction was filed during the garbage strike in New York City and the president of the New York City Sanitation Workers' Union was jailed.

The teachers' strike occurred just as the administrative mechanisms for implementing the Taylor law were being set up, and it was generally agreed that it was not a fair test of the law's effectiveness in preventing strikes.

Sanitation union leaders openly defied the no-strike ban and mediation procedures when the garbage dispute arose. A settlement was eventually worked out through binding arbitration. There was criticism at this point that the Taylor law had failed its first big test.

Proponents of the law pointed out that New York City is exempt from some provisions of the Taylor law, including one that the State Public Employment Relations Board is forbidden from intervening in the city until a strike has begun.

Envoys Await Talk Renewal

PARIS (AP) - The possibility of new moves by the United States and North Vietnam focused attention today on the deadlocked Paris peace talks as negotiators prepared to go back to the conference table after a six-day recess.

The meeting Wednesday will be the eighth between U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and his North Vietnamese counterpart, Xuan Thuy, since the talks opened May 13.

While no one on either side here expects any major breakthrough for some time, perhaps months, Western diplomats expect occasional tactical maneuvers by Hanoi and Washington of importance to the long-range peace outlook.

Harriman returned Monday night from a weekend trip to the United States to attend the funeral of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. He also conferred with President Johnson and if he came back with any new ideas they would presumably begin to show up in the discussion Wednesday.

U.S. diplomats also hope to get some indication soon, perhaps Wednesday, of the significance of the assignment to Paris of a member of the North Vietnamese Communist party politburo. Le Due Tho arrived a week ago to serve as "special counselor" to Xuan Thuy. He did not attend last Wednesday's meeting, the explanation being that he was tired from traveling. He is expected to show up Wednesday.

Each side is trying to wear away the position of the other by a combination of patience, propaganda and diplomacy—all based on what is happening in the war. With no major victories on either side on the battlefield the positions in Paris have held firm.

The North Vietnamese Communist newspaper, Nhan Dan, revived Monday the 1966 threat of President Ho Chi Minh that his people will fight on for 20 years or longer if necessary to defeat the United States.

The threat appeared part of Hanoi's continuing effort to maintain public opinion pressure on the United States to stop bombing North Vietnam. T argument is that if the United States doesn't halt the bombing the Paris talks will get nowhere and the war will go on for many years.

U.S. diplomats say privately that Johnson has gone as far as he can to limit attacks on the North without reciprocal moves by Ho Chi Minh to scale down operations. The President argues further cutbacks would increase the danger to U.S. and allied forces in South Vietnam.

SOUNDS FINE BUT IT DOESN'T WORK

"From each according to his abilities, to each according to his needs."

We agree with Editor Wes Izzard as he writes that his major tenet of Communism was wet down in 1875 by Karl Marx in a tract titled "Critique of the Gotha Program."

It was adopted by the Fabian Socialists in England and spread by them throughout the western world.

It means simply that those who produce must share with those who don't.

Also, implicit in the rule is the stipulation that an all-wise authority do the dividing.

Today in this country we are moving toward a concept called the "negative income tax." This is another term for guaranteed income.

Those whose income is below what experts say is necessary to support a family "in some comfort" would receive regular checks from the U. S. Treasury.

Says U. S. News & World Report: "Income tax takes money from the ones who have it. 'Negative income tax' gives money to those who do not have enough."

It means, in short: "From each according to his abilities, to each according to his needs."

U. S. News reports that while Congress looks on the proposal with a jaundiced eye at the moment, many businessmen favor it. "Rockefeller and Nixon are inclining toward it. White House has task forces at work on it in various forms."

And this, says U. S. News, is the wave of the future -- even though it promises to cost a minimum of 6 to 10 billion dollars a year.

It is also the wave of the past. It has been tried over and over, and has never worked because incentive dries up.

With so many Washington officials away making campaign speeches, we get the impression the country is on automatic pilot.

Theon Compus to motorist with dented fender: "Don't know whether to sell you any gas -- looks as if you've had enough."

ROLWING FOR CONGRESS

This newspaper supports the candidacy of David Rolwing of Charleston for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the 10th Congressional District.

We believe that his legislative experience, his youthful energy, his forward outlook, and his record of personal and political independence qualify him for this important office.

We feel that he is the most qualified man in the race and that he will be able to represent the interests of Southeast Missouri in the Halls of Congress.

To be a good Congressman in the tough, decision-making days ahead, it will take a man who is intelligent, who has at least some legislative experience, who has the courage of his own convictions and who is forward-looking, and prepared to see great and lasting changes in this section of Missouri in the years ahead.

We believe that David Rolwing is such a man.

During the next decade, if the 10th District of Missouri has the proper type of leadership on the local state and national levels, there will be more changes than most of us have seen in a lifetime.

The type of man needed in Congress to represent this district during this time is a man who will welcome many of these changes, will help to see that many of them take place, and will provide the type of leadership to see that during this period of change, the 10th district is ably represented in the highest position of government.

Rolwing is from Mississippi County - a native of Charleston - and he has represented his county in the State Legislature for eight years. He has done a good job for his district, and for the State of Missouri. During his tenure in the Legislature he has stood and fought for such programs as industrial expansion for such areas as ours concern for the education of our young people, and a sound agriculture, among others. He has business experience, farming experience, and a degree in the field of economics - sound preparation for a good Congressman.

But - perhaps most of all - we like his political and personal independence. He cares little for "slates", smokified rooms, and political "deals". He's going to no man with his hat in his hand, pleading for his support. He hadn't done it, and he won't do it.

While loyal to the principles of the Democratic party, and a "party man" in a General Election, Dave Rolwing is first, last and always "his own man". He feels and so, we think, do most Stoddard Countians that the Representative in Congress - or any other public official should be in a position to represent the people - not be a puppet for a select few.

We understand there is to be a closed-door session in Poplar Bluff on June 8 at which a "slate" for Southeast Missouri will be "picked" by a select few. We have no idea who will get the nod from this group - and we don't care a bit. If Dave Rolwing happens to get it then we will be for him DESPITE the endorsement not because of it.

The people of the 10th district face many problems and many changes in the months and years ahead. The people will need a young, aggressive, intelligent Congressman to help them solve these problems and meet these changes.

We believe that David Rolwing is that man.

Motorists were reminded today by Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, of the law regarding littering of the State's highways.

"Missouri highways are heavily traveled during the late spring and summer months. It is during this time that the work of the litterbug is in particular evidence. I want to remind the motoring public that it is a misdemeanor to throw refuse on highways."

Colonel Hockaday quoted the Missouri law which prohibits throwing litter on highways or right of ways. The law reads in part: "No person shall throw or place, or cause to be thrown or placed, any glass, glass bottles, wire, nails, tacks, hedge, cans, garbage, trash, refuse, or rubbish of any kind, nature or description on the right of way of any public road or State highway."

The Superintendent also quoted the section of the law which provides penalties for littering roadways. It reads: "Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than five hundred dollars or by confinement in the county jail for a term not to exceed one year or by both such fine and confinement."

"Littering highways is a costly and dangerous practice," Hockaday noted. "It costs the

HUMAN SPIRIT

BEST HOPE

In spite of the best-of-

Unfortunately, it usually takes a disaster of some kind to reveal the unlimited capacity of the Alaskans expressed the sentiment that, "As long as it happened, it's best that it

H.L. Hunt Says

U.S.S.R. INCREASING

ITS AGGRESSIVE

POTENTIAL

The Soviet Union's leaders are unrelenting in their drive to gain weapons superiority over the U'S. In many areas, the Soviets are frighteningly close to success.

The Pentagon has acknowledged that in the past year, Russia increased its total number of land-based I.C.B.M.'s

by almost 400. By mid-1969 their total may surpass that of the U.S. Said one U'S defense planner, "There is no question they are attempting to get even with us in I.C.B.M.'s."

They are aided in this drive

by short-sighted U.S. defense policies. Although the Soviets continue to build new missile sites, the U.S. refuses to increase its total.

Testimony before congressional committees reveals that the communist nuclear submarine force is becoming a serious threat to our Strategic Air Command bomber bases.

The U.S.S.R. is acquiring

Polaris-type submarines capable of launching missiles while submerged. These submarines could wipe out many of our bases.

While the U.S. moves slowly in acquiring an anti-missile defense system, the communists have installed one around

Moscow. Other areas of the Soviet Union will have such a system soon.

By the end of 1968, the Soviets are expected to have a new kind of missile known as a fractional orbital bombardment system, which would go into an orbit only 100 miles high much lower than that of the I.C.B.M.

It would be undetectable by our radar until a few minutes before impact. Russia is not standing still. Neither must the U.S. stand still if it expects to defend the free world against aggression.

RON JAYNES

Sports Corner

It was baseball that St. Louis and Cincinnati played Sunday, but statistics of the doubleheader made it seem anything but the game known as the national pastime.

The two teams split the twin-bill, scoring a total of 31 runs on 53 hits and sending 19 pitchers to the mound in six hours and 17 minutes of play.

Before the largest crowd at Crosley Field this season - 28,141, the Cardinals took the first game 10-8 and the Reds captured the second in 12 innings 7-6.

Before the marathon ended, fans saw four Cincinnati pitchers who participated in the first game set into second-game action and two moundsmen from St. Louis performing double duty.

Ron Willis of the Cards took the first game from Bob Lee and George Culver of the Reds captured the second over Steve Carlton.

Reds' Manager Dave Bristol said, of the second-game victory, "Cincinnati is not going to fold up. The players showed that today."

The Reds sent the game into extra innings after overcoming a 6-0 deficit.

Cardinals' Manager Red Schoendienst's reply, "We simply didn't score enough runs to win the second game."

In the first game, Reds' starting pitcher Gerry Arrigo blew most of an eight-run lead in the fifth and had to leave with two out.

"I started the game with a pulled back muscle but didn't let Bristol know about it," he said. "It bothered me - but with an eight-run lead I had hoped to hold on."

The temperature late in the afternoon registered near a 100 degrees.

Leo Cardenas doubled home Tony Perez from first base with two out in the last of the 12th inning to give Cincinnati its victory in the nightcap.

Vada Pinson's third homer and Mack Jones' two-run homer sparked the Reds' comeback.

The tying run crossed in the eighth when Johnny Bench's sacrifice fly scored Lee May, who had singled and gone to third on a double by Perez.

In the first game, St. Louis exploded for 10 runs with two out in the fifth inning, wiping out an 8-0 Cincinnati lead.

Lou Brock climaxing the fifth-inning rally, greeted reliever Bill Kelsow with a three-run homer.

The Cards go to Atlanta tonight with Larry Jaster 4-2 scheduled to start for St. Louis and Phil Niekro 5-4 for the Braves.

The Missouri Department of Conservation has won awards in three categories of international competition for its informational work through radio, television and exhibits, and in addition was recognized for having one of the nation's top information programs.

The competition was in the American Association of Conservation Information (AACI), an organization of information and public relations sections of state and provincial conservation agencies.

Missouri's three specialized awards were all in categories supervised by Herschel (Woody) Bledsoe of Jefferson City.

Missouri won first place in the television category with Bledsoe's weekly show, "Let's Go Hunting and Fishing with Woody Bledsoe," seen on station KOMU-TV, Columbia, Missouri. The first place in the radio category was presented for the Conservation Department's series of radio programs promoting better forestry practices, "Woody and the Tall Timber Trio." The radio series has been running weekly for 17 years, and is now used by 24 radio stations throughout Missouri.

In Missouri the show has been recognized as one of the major educational tools in combating forest fires. Missouri also won a second place award in the exhibits category with its exhibit in the Cape Girardeau Southeast Missouri Fair. Bledsoe is the department's exhibit supervisor. First place in that category went to Ontario for an exhibit in Expo 67.

Missouri's other award was a second place for its overall conservation information program. That award is based on total points given for participation in the awards program and is an indication for the scope as well as the quality of the information work done by a member agency. It means that the Missouri Conservation Department was judged to have one of the best all around information programs in the nation. Last year, Missouri won first place in this category.

Past AACI awards won by the Missouri Conservation Department include three first place awards in a row for the magazine, "The Missouri Conservationist;" first place awards for nearly every major wildlife movie produced by the department; and first for many of its publications, news releases, photographs, and special information programs. Many second and third place awards have also gone to Missouri.

Information Officer James F. Keefe of the Missouri Department of Conservation accepted the awards at a special awards banquet here this week.

The victory gave Seaver a 4-5 mark while Sutton, who struck out 10 slipped to 3-6 on the year.

Retail spending on recreational boating has more than tripled in the last 15 years, the Boating Industry Association reports. Spending on new and used boating equipment, insurance, fuel, docking and maintenance first topped the $1 billion mark in 1954. In 1967, BIA says, boating expenditures ran $3,000,100,000.

Boatmen themselves see more water patrolmen and better enforcement of existing laws as the keys to reduction of accidents, according to the Boat Owners Council of America. More than 75 per cent of the respondents in a recent BOCA survey said there were enough boating laws on the books, but not enough officers to enforce them.

Bids Called for New Dexter City Hall

DEXTER - A resolution calling for bids on a new city hall for Dexter was passed unanimously at a meeting of the city council Monday night. And will be opened at the council meeting, June 17.

Plans for the city hall and other city offices were drawn by Gene Nichols, contractor, who was hired by the city to draw the plans and specifications.

The new city facilities will be on East Stoddard Street.

Other action included granting a plumbing and heating license to Joe Hunter, report on a petition requesting that the Lee addition in East Dexter be brought into the city was made by Ward Three Aldermen James Williams who recommended that the area be annexed.

The board also voted to purchase a 1968 Dodge pickup from Ester-Walker-Knight purchase price quoted $2319 or $1700 and trade-in.

Discussion of two houses on one water meter in which the owner is paying two minimum bills was brought up by Ward One Alderman Sherman Boone who pointed out that as many as six apart ments are on one meter and pay only one minimum.

Mayor Willis Conner requested that O. D. Hill, Water Superintendent, check into the matter and make a report.

It was also pointed out that a fruit stand had been opened on SHighway 114 and that a city license should be purchased by the owners.

Weeds on Poplar Street a request for a two-way stop sign on East Oak at Cora which was passed by ordinance; need for an additional street light in the Park-Olive street area near the Ward Three voting house which was recommended, were also brought up by the Board.

Dexter Moves To Get Out Vote Tuesday

DEXTER - City officials, Chamber of Commerce leaders and others are urging Dexter voters to give an overwhelming vote of support Tuesday to the "Fram Corporation Bonds" at a special election Wednesday.

"We are anxious about the matter, since we are afraid many persons will forget the election entirely, or else think that issue will pass, and will fail to go to the polls," one city official said today.

Officials emphasized that the bond issue, if passed, will assure the new Fram Corporation factory for Dexter but will not raise our taxes "one penny". Rental revenue from the Fram Corporation will be used to retire the bonds, with no increase in taxes for local persons. it was emphasized.

Voting will be at three polling places in Dexter, and civic groups here are anxious to have a big turnout of voters.

"We need to do more than merely pass this issue," one city official said. "We need to pass it by an overwhelming majority to show to the state and to other prospective industries that Dexter wants industry and is willing to make every effort to secure it."

For that reason, officials are hopeful that all voters will go to the polls and will vote "Yes" for the bonds.

Photography suffered a grievous loss with the sudden passing of Ivan Dmitri, founder and director of the Photography in the Fine Arts project.

He was a rare human being whose tremendous talents, integrity and vision commanded international respect, while his cheerful smile, his gift of gab and his deep sense of humanity made him a personal friend of most everyone he encountered.

I first met Dmitri 15 years ago when he was principal speaker at a photography short course at Kent State University. He captivated the audience with his adventures and pictures as a globe-trotting photographer for the Saturday Evening Post and other magazines.

But it was after he conceived, started and poured his heart into the first Photography in the Fine Arts exhibition in 1959 that I became involved with his projects and developed the highest admiration for his ability and achievements.

There have been five PFA exhibitions. They opened at Manhattan's prestigious Metropolitan Museum of Art before moving on to more than 150 museums throughout the United States and Canada. His idea inspired countless photographers by giving them a high-level goal to shoot for. And it enriched the lives of millions of viewers.

Amazingly enough, Dmitri led a dual life and had three highly successful careers.

Born in 1908 in North Dakota, son of a Congregational preacher, his real name was Levon West, a descendant of Benjamin West, famous early American painter. With this heritage, it is not surprising that he started out as an artist. While in his early 20s the name of Levon West was known in art circles as one of America's great etchers. His etchings won awards and international honors and were bought by collectors and leading art museums.

With the Depression of the 1930s, however, luxuries like etchings were put aside so he turned to another profession, photography. To protect the name of Levon West, artist, he sought a new name. A friend suggested an exotic Russian combination: Ivan Dmitri. He adopted it and the name became famous in its own right for 25 years as one of America's foremost color photographers.

About 10 years ago he shelved everything to devote his entire time to an inspirational idea. He called it Photography in the Fine Arts.

Simply stated, he felt that people should be able to go to all museums to see the finest examples of photography just as they went there to see fine paintings, sculptures and other examples of man's creative artistic abilities.

He proposed to assemble the outstanding photographs through juries composed of leading photographic organizations and sources. The entries judged to be qualified by photographers were then to be submitted to a large panel of museum directors and curators for final esthetic distillation and selection. Those that emerged formed the PFA exhibitions.

The project encountered early opposition and stirred up some controversy among photographers who objected to a final judging by museum people. But the program moved ahead and gained momentum and universal prestige.

Today it is safe to assess Ivan Dmitri's efforts and say that his dream has been achieved with Photography in the Fine Arts.

And, thankfully, Ivan Dmitri lived long enough to see its fulfillment. Now the question remains: Who is there to carry on the job with the same devotion, integrity and energy?

Photography's tribute to Dmitri's memory should be the maintenance and expansion of PFA as a lasting and living monument.

Protective Eyewear Helps

AP Newsfeatures

Besppectacled little Johnny on first base held out his hands to catch the ball as it hurtled toward him. Somehow he missed, and it smashed into his right eye, shattering the glass. . . .

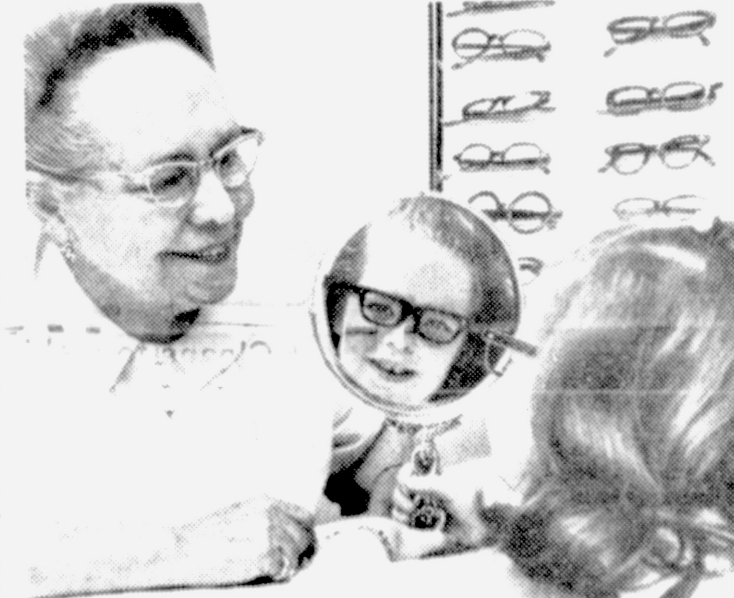

With that tragic accident Johnny became a statistic—one of the half-million Americans who suffer serious eye injury at home and in school every year.

About 90 per cent of these injuries could be prevented if these children and adults had been wearing protective eyewear says Dr. Arthur H. Keeney, ophthalmologist-in-chief at the Wills Eye Hospital in Philadelphia.

The Guild of Prescription Opticians of America—those men and women who manufacture and fit glasses to doctors' prescriptions—have launched a campaign to make the public aware of protective eyewear. The Safety Council has enthusiastically endorsed the program.

Says Dr. Keeney, who is the program's honorary chairman: "If heat-treated, impact-resistant safety glass or plastic lenses had been invented and available before ordinary glass lenses, hardly anyone today would knowingly endanger their eyes from ordinary glasses that can disintegrate into blinding shafts under slight impact."

Protective eyewear is made of tough, shatter-resistant glass that has been heated in a special furnace and then chilled rapidly. To qualify, it must pass the Drop Ball Test, established by the United States of America Standards Institute, withstanding the impact of a 5 8 inch steel ball dropped from a height of 50 inches.

HER FIRST PAIR — This little girl seems to like what she sees. Helping her is Mrs. Edwin Scott, Hartford, Conn., optician, who has convinced the parents she should have impact-resistant lenses.

"An ordinary lens would break into needle-sharp fragments under such stress, while a protective lens will pass this stringent test," says Dr. Keeney. Of course, any glass can break under sufficient stress, but even if the impact resistant lenses do break they will not splinter and gouge the eye. Plastic won't break at all.

Dr. Keeney says protective eyewear is a must for all children wearing glasses and for adults engaged in hazardous occupations, the hobbyist working with power tools, the homeowner burning leaves, trimming bushes, performing household tasks.

Does protective eyewear cost more? A few dollars more, but it will last for the length of the prescription. No new pair is needed every time the old one is dropped or set upon.

More than one-half of all Americans 6 years or older wear glasses today, and they are increasingly style-conscious. Protective eyewear doesn't look any different from ordinary glasses.

The fact that children's glasses look just like the ones worn by their parents, says Mrs. Edwin Scott, the Guild's director of women's services is one reason the resistance many children had to their first pair of eyeglasses has been overcome.

She says an added safety factor that parents should be aware of is metal braces imbedded in the frame and running across the front to help prevent twisting and breaking.

Swedish Singers on Ice

By EVA REDVALL
Associated Press Writer

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Lohengrin took Dorabella by the hand and together they floated out on the ice, while King Gustav III of Sweden chased by, so vigorously that he burst his pants. King Marke and King Gustav's little page had enough trouble just keeping their vertical positions.

These five characters from operas, in their private roles as opera singers Sven Olov Eliasson, Margot Rodin, Ragnar Ulfung, Bengt Rundgren and Birgit Nordin, had heeded the call from the Athletic Association of the Stockholm Opera and ransacked their attics for their old skates to help the association in promoting public relations.

The singers, accustomed to three-hour performances, did not last for more than half an hour on the skating rink, however, and the hot dog stand did beautiful business during that time.

Ragnar Ulfung, the big clown of the Stockholm Opera, who had just finished off "Armen" the night before, was happily chasing his female colleagues around the rink, doing pirouettes and jumps around them until they almost collapsed laughing.

One of the fittest members of the Swedish Royal Opera, this happy Norwegian has many times stunned his audiences by turning perfect somersaults on stage.

Pette Birgit Nordin seemed to feel very much at home in her trousers. She is used to wearing them on stage, too, during her nine years as an opera singer. Those who have seen her as the amorous little page boy Cherubino in Mozart's "Le Nozze di Figaro" say there is nobody like her.

Both Ragnar Ulfung and Miss Nordin appeared in Verdi's "Il Ballo in Maschera" when the Stockholm Royal Opera performed at Expo last summer. He as King Gustav III, she, again, as a page boy. Sven Olov Eliasson sang the part of the King in the second performance of the same opera. Bengt Rundgren, the fourth ice skater, was highly praised for his King Marke in Wagner's "Tristan und Isolde."

Now this stately bass has been asked to return to Montreal and sing the same part.

In fact, all five of these bold operatic ice skaters are going international. Ragnar Ulfung is going to sing in concerts in Pittsburgh and London, and will also be singing regularly at the Hamburger Staatsoper. Birgit Nordin will spend the whole summer in London. Margot Rodin has just the Swedish Royal Opera, this happy Norwegian has many times stunned his audiences by turning perfect somersaults on stage.

Pette Birgit Nordin seemed to feel very much at home in her trousers. She is used to wearing them on stage, too, during her nine years as an opera singer. Those who have seen her as the amorous little page boy Cherubino in Mozart's "Le Nozze di Figaro" say there is nobody like her.

Both Ragnar Ulfung and Miss Nordin appeared in Verdi's "Il Ballo in Maschera" when the Stockholm Royal Opera performed at Expo last summer. He as King Gustav III, she, again, as a page boy. Sven Olov Eliasson sang the part of the King in the second performance of the same opera. Bengt Rundgren, the fourth ice skater, was highly praised for his King Marke in Wagner's "Tristan und Isolde."

Now this stately bass has been asked to return to Montreal and sing the same part.

In fact, all five of these bold operatic ice skaters are going international. Ragnar Ulfung is going to sing in concerts in Pittsburgh and London, and will also be singing regularly at the Hamburger Staatsoper. Birgit Nordin will spend the whole summer in London. Margot Rodin has just

Suit Against Doctor Fails-No Damage

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.
Grace had a strong will and a stronger won't. For years and years she refused to marry "the boy next door", even though she loved him, because she believed that she could not have children. It was only when her family doctor interceded and told her that she could in fact have children that she flopped into her boyfriend's arms and married him. But, for years thereafter all Grace's infanticipation proved futile. The closest she ever came to becoming a mother was when her cat had kittens.

Terribly upset, Grace finally sued her family doctor for deceiving her.

"He tricked me," she complained to a judge. "He told me I could have children when he knew it wasn't true. Had I not been deceived, I'd never have gotten married."

"So I made a mistake," was the doctor's kindly answer. "Nobody's right at the time. Besides, what was the harm done?"

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the doctor pay for Grace's having gotten married?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held that there can be no recovery for deception unless there has been damage done. In this case, concluded the judge, even if the doctor had been guilty of deception, Grace suffered no damage since she married a man whom she loved and which was all for the best.

education and that strength as resources in helping to build a better society, or will you remain silent...

The choice is yours, and how you choose will determine the future and the kind of society you and your children will live in, and the opportunities and freedoms all of us will have.

He encouraged the future leaders to actively seek out problems in the education, farming and business, and not shy away from, but welcome the challenge to solve them.

Alluding to his own profession, Brown told the audience that "there is a demand for fresh talent... imaginative creative people, who understand the value of our competitive free enterprise system and will work to preserve it."

"Business," he said, "knows it cannot operate independently, as if it were an island." Business and profit, he said, today go hand in hand.

Finally, he both challenged and warned the students that the greatest danger the country faces is not the myriad, seemingly, unsolvable problems but its "apathetic people who lack initiative to work for a solution to these problems."

Is this penchant for violence global or American? The figures speak for themselves. In 1967, 5,200 Americans died of gunshot wounds. In France it was 12. Of the last 21 presidents of the United States, six have been shot at and four have been killed. According to Dr. John Spiegel, psychiatrist and director of the Center for the Study of Violence at Brandeis University, "The United States presidency may well be the highest risk job in the world."

Why do Americans love violence? Part of the reason must surely be rooted in our bloody history—beginning with our massacre of the American Indians. Then came the early frontier days which glorified the gun. The man with the fastest draw was king.

Traditional American heroes are cowboys and Indians and cops and robbers. The "good" man shoots the bad man and that's the way to get rid of people you don't like. We buy our children toy guns and holsters and cap pistols and soldier uniforms and teach them that killing is manly and war is fun.

Now that Bobby Kennedy has been slain by an assassin's bullet, the President has appointed a commission to study violence in our land. Until the commission comes up with some answers I would like to offer a few suggestions of my own.

Hound your congressmen, senators and legislators until we get some decent gun control laws, both federal and state. Those we have now are pathetically inadequate.

Don't buy your children toy guns or teach them killing games. Don't allow them to watch violence on TV. Don't let them go to movies that deal with murder.

Train your children to settle their differences in a non-violent manner. If you see signs of extreme hostility or anger or unusual quietness and an inability to relate to others take him to a specialist. Don't wait until he grows up and kills somebody. Teach your children that gentleness is more powerful than brutality, that mercy is more satisfying than revenge—that love is stronger than hate.

Ann Landers

Not All Alcoholics Wives Fit Pattern

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a slashing broadside against women who marry alcoholics. You said the vast majority of these women need to be martyrs, that they would rather have their husbands drunk than sober because if gives them an opportunity to be saints. You also stated most women who divorce alcoholics turn right around and marry other boozers.

For years I have been an admirer of your column—especially your understanding of alcoholism and your sympathy for those who live with it. I wonder if perhaps that particular answer was written while you were out to lunch. It didn't sound like the Ann Landers I have been reading for years.

I didn't know my husband was an alcoholic until after we had been married several months. He was so clever at concealing his liquor consumption that I could write a book about it. (Gin in the

Your notion that wives of alcoholics use their husbands' drinking as a conversation piece was not the case with me. I was too ashamed.

After eight years of agony, my doctor advised me to give my husband a choice, the bottle or me and the kids. He chose the bottle. I divorced him and my life has been a comparative heaven ever since. Will I marry another alcoholic? Never. I refuse a second date with any man who has more than two drinks during an evening.

Mrs. Nelson Gruen, who had accompanied her mother, Mrs. Desie Shepherd to St. Louis where she had eye surgery, has returned home. Mrs. Shepherd's operation was successful and she has been dismissed from the hospital and is in the home of her daughter, Miss Emma Lee Shepherd in St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Mock Dishman and children of Marshville, Mo., were weekend guests of Mrs. Fern Johnson and Randy.

Mrs. Ed Hard suffered a stroke last week. She was taken to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Marilyn Laughton of Little Rock, could take her parents to her home.

This afternoon her 12-year-old son appeared at the door. He said, "Mom says you should give me your vacuum sweeper. Ours broke." I replied, "I'd be happy to lend you my vacuum sweeper, but don't you

I've become accustomed to her lack of grace and I accept it but it's pretty hard to take orders from her children, ages 10 and 12. They speak just like their mother.

Moose Commended for Saving Helicopter

ASCOM, KOREA - It was a routine reconnaissance flight along the demilitarized zone for the two helicopters from the second aviation battalion.

Then, a troubled call from the trailing craft brought the first chopper around for a look. Flames and smoke were pouring in a long stream for the second chopper as it began to lose altitude. A forced landing was made under partial power at an unimproved airstrip.

With no facilities at the airstrip, a rescue team was flown in to evacuate the helicopter. Slinging in a new engine, tools and all necessary equipment by copter, the team went to work.

Less than seven hours after the forced landing, the chopper was back in the air heading for home with a new engine and running gear.

The five men of the rescue team who performed this feat were honored with the presentation of letters of appreciation and certificates of proficiency by Co. F.J. Donoghue, commander 20th general support group at group headquarters.

Receiving the awards were Sp6 Jimmy O'Bryant, Sp5 Thomas Beamon, Sp5 Donald Maughan, crew chiefs from Company A, 2nd aviation battalion, and Sp5 Charles Moose, senior aircraft engine repairman from Sikeston, Mo.

Sp4 Gayland Boyd, engine specialist both of Company E, 702nd Maintenance Battalion.

Ten trips were required by the first chopper to bring all the equipment and the new engine from Ascom to R-107.

Everything was brought in by slinging the equipment under the helicopter by cables. Republic of Korea Army soldiers lent a helping hand with the heavy work.

Previously, the team was lauded for saving a CH-21 helicopter downed in a river south of Suwon. Working in the dead of winter hampered by ice, water, snow and shifting sand, the team was able to fly the craft out after extensive repairs.

Moose is the son of C. H. Moose, 324 Benton St., Sikeston, Mo., and Louie Vinson, 710 Allen Blvd. Sikeston.

He is senior aircraft engine repairman with E Co 702 Maint. Bn., Ascom, Korea.

A 1960 graduate of Sikeston High school, Moose arrived overseas Aug. 18. Before his present assignment he was stationed at Fort Eustis, Va.

He formerly was a commercial pilot employed by Sikeston Aviation Service.

Repaired both of Company E, 702nd Maintenance Battalion.

Anderson Lauds New Consumer Protection Law

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - Atty. Gen. Norman H. Anderson estimated today his new consumer protection division has saved Missourians more than $133,000 in its first six months of operation.

He said 964 complaints of allegedly fraudulent practices have been processed and the average of 160 a month is increasing. The office has obtained 27 injunctions and another case pending and has obtained 26 voluntary compliances.

Anderson reported the greatest areas of complaints involve sale of insurance, wigs, automobiles, automobile repairs and automobile upholstery. "The mere presence of a consumer protection law," Anderson said, "with its ability to obtain injunctions and enforce heavy fines, has eliminated many fraudulent and deceptive practices in the state."
